TAKE AND LIVE.

In one of the New England States lives a family which in early days bore a very humble part in life. But as time advanced fortune favored, until arthly blessings seemed complete. Though for the present the name is untold, yet its influence to do good is the same, and it gives to the world wealth in health.

One member of this family was a lady in the errly flush of womanhood, with a pure, sweet, nd tender face, with dark, glowing eyes, with ral tinted lips, with rosy cheeks and amber urls. She was as graceful as a gazelle, as light But as the frost destroys the fairest flower, so Disease. oted for her destruction; and she, who was so oung, so beautiful, and so full of promise, was costrated, helpless and dving, before the king of terrors, who buffled all skill. Physicians turned away with no encouraging word, and from their lie." But one morning as death seemed to be folding her in his icy embrace, and the golden sun was striving with the purest light to make the last of earth appear most beautiful. Ada, slowly opening her eyes, faintly and almost voicelessly said to her brother. "Charlie, I am going to live. Three nights in succession have I dreamed that over yonder, near the banks, among the trees, grows an herb which fill destroy this disease, and give me back again myself. I never saw the herb but in my dream, but I would know it now could I see it, but I grow strong while thinking of it. Yest Yest I live! Take me to it—I can ride. Without it I die." Charlie tried to show her the danger of being moved, and that It was almost madness for her to think of riding. But he knew that in that room all efforts to restore her had been in vain, and that she was dying here. Her armestness filled him with the hope that by ganting her request she might live; and, though death seemed near, yet they went. Passing along the Lank of the stream, among the trees, suddenly with one wild ery of joy, she exclaimed, "There! Charlie, there is the Lacurat." The herb was gathered and a preparation was made from it, as she was directed in the dream. Day by day she partook of this new deramed of life-giving power, until after a few weeks health was restored and name it lived and coursed through her folding her in his icy embrace, and the golden ower, until after a few weeks health was d, and nature lived and coursed throug veins triumphant.

This remedy is now before the world, and is known only by the name given it, by her who was dying yet living, and lived on account of it.

What Ada's Physicians

Being the family physician of Ada's father's family, and attending her during her sickness, I had an opportunity of witnessing the beneficial effects of the La cu-pi-a upon her. Since then I have used it with great success in my practice. It purifies the blood, equalizes the circulation and corrects the functions of the stomach and liver as well as of the kidneys, lungs, and heart. It has a gentle stimulating effect upon the system, and embles it to throw off all the mortherille matter in the blood and secretions, and assist nature in Having been one of Ada's consulting physicians, and having frequently met Dr. Ross at her sick bed, I can testify that never in my life have I seen any one so very sick and reduced to such a low state of vitality that ver recovered, and I am convinced, beyond all doubt, that had it not been I have been so made repeated exten-found medicine that I have made repeated exten-sive examinations of it, and at the same time experimented with it, both in my private and bountal practice, and am convinced that it is one

Female Complaints.

These are of great variety, and arise from many different causes. The uterine functions are disordered when the menses are unnaturally arrested, when their quantity is too great or too small; when they are pale and waters, when they are dark and clotted, other diseases, such as falling of the womb, nicesation of the labia, inflammation and absesses of the overin, also, congestion, dropsy, polypous and cancerous formations.
